Sleuth cop catches alleged car burglars

by MARY FOLEY Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch police officer James Foerster responded to what he thought was an ordinary automotive burglary Thursday morning in Oakwood Knolls Subdivision.

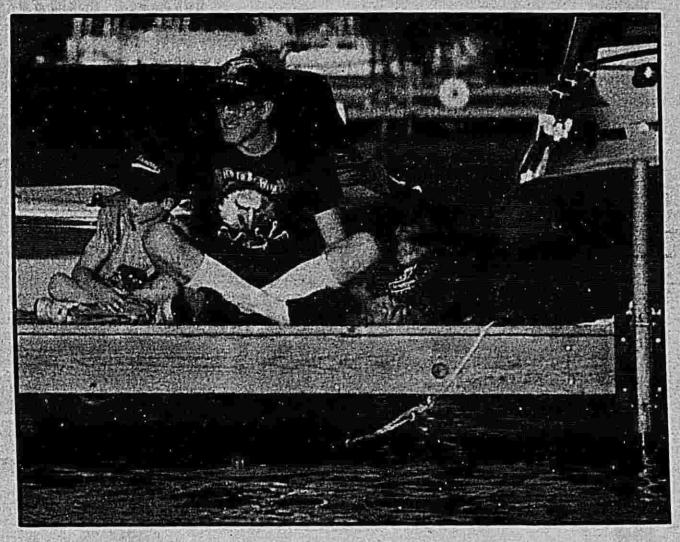

At some point during night, unknown persons broke into a parked car stealing a radar detector and approximately $400 in quarters and loose change kept in a bucket in the back seat.

While taking the report, Foerster noticed that the thieves used a large rock to break into the car. When Foerster returned to the station he called all four local banks. grocery stores, and the currency exchange to alert them of the possibility that the criminals may attempt to convert the quarters into paper currency.

Sure enough, a teller at the First National Bank on Lake Street called when Adam Kannin, age 17, and Robert Grubb, also 17, tried to convert almost $400 worth of quarters.

After searching the pair's car, police found cellular phones, cassettes, coins, radar detectors, and the original bucket with glass from the broken window.

Kannin and Grubb of Paddock Lake, Wisconson reportedly told police that they had burglarized over 50 cars in the Oakwood Knolls Subdivision between 12 a.m. and 4 a.m. that night. According to the two, they had stashed the loot off Nelson Road and returned later to pick it (Continued on page 52)

Wetlands, islands will be recreated on Grass Lake

by TINA SWIECH

Lakeland Newspapers

The Chain O' Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency announced a trip to Springfield this September to demonstrate its dredging progress and also to ask for financial assistance.

Added equipment, including more pipe, at least a mile or more, for the dredging project is needed, and also about $800,000 for various projects, old and new, which includes some work for the Grass Lake area, according to executive director of the agency, Karen Kabbes.

The Grass Lake proposal would enable the agency to actually re-create wetlands by using dredge material. Islands would also be part of the plan, created by the suctioned-up sediment, Kabbes explained, because many of them have either been destroyed, or just disappeared.

The floor of Grass Lake is very porous, delicate and soft, therefore the creation of islands there is going to be a tedious project, explained Kabbes. Last December, several members of the waterway agency visited the Vicksburg, (Continued on page 52)

Round Lake man held in sexual assault cases

by SUZIE REED . Lakeland Newspapers

Lake County residents were shocked last week at the report of a sexual assault in the Libertyville area. A woman was attacked Aug. 16 on the North Shore bike path.

With some fast work and a little luck, the Libertyville Police Department was able to report that an arrest had been made.

Unfortunately, the suspect was not caught before he assaulted a woman in Round Lake Aug. 22.

"About 2 p.m. we got a call from a concerned citizen on 911 saying a woman was being tossed to the ground by a male at Lincoln and Park," said Round Lake Police Chief Joe Trkovsky.

A squad car responded to the call and chased the suspect when he began to run. A number of police departments got involved in the chase as well as the Round Lake Park District and the Fire Department.

The suspect was finally apprehended hiding under a van. Christopher S. Hanson, 17, lives at 1520 Meadowbrook in Round Lake Beach.

The victim, 25, suffered no apparent injuries and did not require medical treatment.

Round Lake Police began an intensive investigation and made the connection to the Libertyville incident.

"We were looking at him as a possibility," said Libertyville Police Chief Dan McCormick: "We were going to talk to him Monday. Then we received a call from Round Lake stating that he had attacked a woman there Sunday afternoon. Officer [Bill] Kinast obtained a confession from him Monday morning."

Libertyville Police had distributed a composite drawing of the suspect. Chief McCormick said a lot of calls had been received from people who said they saw someone who fit that description.

"People think composites are worthless but police officers do look at them," said Chief Trkovsky.

"We can't do it alone," said Chief McCormick. "It takes a combined effort, not only from other police departments but from the citizens. The Lake County Sheriff's Department was very cooperative."

The Libertyville victim identified the suspect in a line-up at the Lake County Jail. He is being held there on a bond of $200,000.

The chief also warned that women should remain alert for possible threatening situations, and walk or ride (bicycles) with another person or take a dog.

"We can't take for granted that we live in a totally safe community," he said.

Lake County out, Elgin in for casino

by MARY FOLEY Lakeland Newspapers

After hearing all of the applicants for the last riverboat casino license in Illinois, listeners were reminded of the story of Goldilocks and the Three Bears. Just as Goldilocks found one bed too soft, and one too hard, the Illinois Gaming Commission appeared to find some fault with all of the applicants.

After several hours in executive session, Wednesday, the gaming board found Elgin the best choice of the four applicants. The board cited the city's nearly 9 percent unemployment rate and need for economic development as reasons for choosing the site.

Lake County residents had mixed reaction on the news announced at press time.

Supporters of the project feel that the defeat of an advisory referendum on the issue by voters in April, hurt the Lake County application. That referendum was defeated by a 61 percent margin. A Lakeland Newspapers poll conducted in early August indicated that 54 percent of residents in Chain O'Lakes area were still opposed to bringing riverboats to Lake County.

The Fox Riverboat Limited Partnership had promised a guaranteed $3 million donation to area schools as well an increased economic development and a revival of the popular boat cruises along the Fox River which operated from the early 1800s to the 1950s. Redevelopment of the historic Mineola Hotel in Fox Lake was also tied to receiving the license.

In excess of $12 million was raised by the partnership in an effort to gain the li-

Each of the four applicants had the opportunity to present their case before the board, Monday.

The first applicant to be heard was the Mirage Riverboats of Illinois with their West Dundee site. From the tenor of the questions by the board, after the presentation, it appeared the board had some concerns about whether the site had shown an economic need. The city West Dundee, with a surplus in their budget of $8 million and relatively low unemployment and poverty rates, may not have as great an economic need as the other locations for riverboat gambling.

On the other hand, the next applicant, the Elgin Riverboat Resort, emphasized their lack of economic development. The board implied that the riverboat casino should not be the only economic development in the area and raised concerns about the amount of available actual cruising space of only 1,900 feet. In the end, however, board members felt that Elgin could find a way to overcome these obstacles.

The Sahara Resorts application seemed to be going pretty well until mention was made of their union difficulties and the possibility of over saturating the market. Nevertheless, a strongly motivated Moline continued until 5 p.m.

Finally, Lake County, the last applicant, gave their presentation. The Fox Riverboat Limited Partnership was given the option of returning on Wednesday or attempting to complete their presentation in an hour.

Since everyone was prepared to testify, the Partnership decided to go ahead. The Partnership was able to complete their application presentation in record time. The Partnership was well prepared for most of the questions asked by the board. Some of the concerns of the board were the annual 18 inch draw off of the water on the Chain and questions about the financial commitments to the immediate area surrounding the proposed site.

Businessman blames local paper for casino defeat

by CLAUDIA M. LENART Lakeland Newspapers

One board member of the Fox Lake Economic Development Commission is blaming Lakeland Newspapers for defeat of the Fox Riverboat Limited Partnership in the race to gain the last riverboat license in Illinois.

Jim Segin said Lakeland Newspapers hurt Lake County's riverboat bid through non-support.

"It was not the 9 percent unemployment that won it for Elgin. It was Lakeland's lack of support that lost it for northern Lake County," said Segin.

Segin also noted that a telephone poll run by Lakeland Newspapers was used by ARC (Against Riverboat Casinos) at the Illinois Gaming Commission hearing.

That telephone poll, which ran in Lakeland's Antioch News-Reporter, showed that 54 percent of Antioch area residents still opposed the riverboat casino, with only 38 percent in favor of the casino. Lakeland Newspapers polled 345 residents after the Fox Riverboat Limited Partnership promised $17 million to area schools and government.

A referendum on the riverboat casino held in the spring showed 61 percent of voters were opposed to the project in west Antioch Township.

Segin further threatened to pull his ads saying 95 percent of Lakeland Newspapers' advertisers were in favor of the riverboat.

Meanwhile, Antioch's Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said she didn't want to speculate on why Lake County lost the bid for a riverboat casino. However, she said that many opponents attended the hearing to testify against all four sites.

"I'm disappointed the Antioch site failed to receive the riverboat license. The project would have provided significant tax relief for residents including vital revenue for the school system," said Shineflug. "We feel the project would have sparked a return of tourism to the area. The site was ideally located, while the majority of other sites are all in one area."

Antioch Township and village boards, Fox Lake village, and Grant Township were in favor of the riverboat casino.

No easy solutions for compensation crisis

by MARY FOLEY Lakeland Newspapers

The workers' compensation crisis in Lake County is growing. With a backlog of over 4,000 cases, attorneys gathering in the Lake County Courthouse lobby like traders at the Chicago Mercantile, and injured workers waiting up to three years just to get a hearing, there are no easy answers.

The state of Wisconsin reportedly has one of the best workers' compensation systems in the country. According to Neil Krueger, administrative law judge in Milwaukee, "Only two percent of our workers compensation claims are litigated." Illinois, on the other hand has approximately 21 percent of all claims in the system.

"Roughly, we tell claimants the backlog to get a hearing date is six to eight months," said Krueger. In Lake County, claimants can expect to wait sixto eight months for an emergency hearing.

When asked why the Wisconsin system was so efficient, Krueger had several suggestions. Wisconsin has a total of 18 administrative law judges (ALJ). They have permanent hearing sites with full time court reporters and support staff.

The most densely populated area of Wisconsin is the Milwaukee, Kenosha, and Racine area. There they have nine ALJ's, with one for approximately every 192,778 residents. At this time there is only one arbitrator covering both Lake and McHenry Counties. According to the Illinois Statistical Abstract, there are 699,659 residents in Lake and McHenry Counties.

Probably the simplest solution is to hire more arbitrators. "We need two arbitrators and a permanent hearing site," explains Mark Jeep, co-chairperson of the Lake County Bar Association's Workers' Compensation Committee.

It would seem then, at a minimum, the Lake County area needs at least two full time arbitrators. Yet, given the financial situation of the state, other avenues are being explored. This fall, Governor Edgar's office will announce the establishment of a task force to study this problem.

"One hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated to the Illinois Industrial Commission to establish a task force to study the problem," said Gene Reinke of Governor Edgar's office. "Next spring they will be making recommendations."

The Illinois Industrial Commission (IIC) oversees workers' compensation. The commission's chairperson, Robert Malooly feels that other avenues should be explored before increasing the expenditures of the commission, such as hiring more arbitrators.

"We are looking at process changes," explained Malooly. "At least 85 percent of all the cases filed are able to be settled without an arbitrator. We are considering a settlement day at the IIC. The insurance company and the petitioner could use the commission's space and not the personnel."

Thelen Sand to build steel tower

by TINA SWIECH

Lakeland Newspapers

A recommendation from the Fox Lake village zoning board to approve the construction of a 320-foot high steel tower on a seven-acre parcel of land owned by Thelen Sand and Gravel of Antioch, showed that the village board liked what they heard and went with the idea.

According to trustee and zoning commission chairman on the village board, Jim Thillen, the tower will be used as a two-way radio signal column for emergency services, and is to be located in a rural setting on English Prarie Road and Wilmot Road.

The tower, according to the trustee, shouldn't be a bother to anyone, therefore the choice to allow for the construction of it, wasn't a difficult one for the board to make.

Besides, according to Thillen, the village will be able to collect on the property taxes of the site where the equipment will be.

Although the Thelen company has an address of Rte. 173 in Antioch, the location where the tower will be placed is in a part of the village of Fox Lake.

Also approved by the board, was the zoning board's suggestion to eliminate the RVP (recreational vehicle) zoning on the land, and to maintain the M-2 (manufacturing district) zoning.

Thillen explained that the former owner wanted the zoning changed from M-2 to RVP so that he could set up a park for recreational vehicles. The park was never built, however, said Thillen, and the former M-2 zoning had to be maintained with a height variation of 225-feet above the maximum height in order to construct the steel tower.

Currently the village of Fox Lake uses its own radio tower for police, fire and rescue which is located on Ernest Avenue in the village near the old village hall, explained Thillen. But if the use of the other radio tower should be needed, then the village may be able to subscribe to it," Thillen said.

Student Assistance Program needs artists, crafters

Crafters wanted

Once again the Antioch High School Student Assistance Program will be sponsoring a magnificent arts and crafts show. This will be the second Annual Peddler's Alley and it will be held at the school on Oct. 23 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be space available for approximately 50 crafters on a firstcome/first-served basis. The deadline for acquiring a space to display and sell your beautiful wares is Sept. 15 and you may contact Robin at 395-6690 for further information on space rental. Sometimes the busy summer months produce a slight slow down in members attending AARP meetings. The first business meeting of the AARP year will be held on Sept. 14. As part of the meeting, members will have the pleasant opportunity to welcome the new AARP officers. President Genevieve Horsch, Secretary Dorothy Rockford and Treasurer Lois McDonna. To my knowledge, the AARP meetings are held at the Antioch Senior Center. A call to the Center will verify this.

My mistake

Lori Jones (if there is such a person) did not play the lead role in the PM&L Production of "Camelot." It was played by a very talented actor named Lou Jones. Sorry, Lou, hopefully I will do better reading my own chicken scratch next time. Keep up your great work with the theatre.

Special Birthday

A huge family celebration was hosted in the beautiful Lake Marie home of Sonny and Lorraine Ignoffo, in order to honor Sarah Ignoffo for her Aug. 15, 85th birthday. There were about 75 people in attendence, which included her children and 26 great grandchildren on hand for the celebration. Also many friends came from near and far to honor her. Happy birthday, grandma Sarah, from Lizard and readers.

Furry Visitor

When Jim, Jr. and I used to spend the entire summer in our Eagle River home. I constantly wondered about the bear population. I asked a longtime area resident when a bear was last spotted in our area. She kept telling me not to worry. The last time a bear was seen was back in the 1960's. In her opinion we were no longer isolated enough. I got braver and braver. Jim and I even went for short, night-time rides on my Honda Scooter. About a week after our summer stay, about five years ago, I received a letter from that neighbor telling me they had spotted a huge black bear crossing the road. Had I met up with "Mr. Bear" on my scooter, I would not be writing this column today as I would have died from fright.

Give me some

We recently visited our friends, Grace and Rich Tierney, in their Conover, Wis. home. Conover is about 12 miles north of Eagle River. They are located deep in the heart of the woods. As we left her house, I told her my bear story and suggested there must be a big bear population in their area. She said they had never seen any, but one was recently spotted on the other side of the lake. The Tierney's have been visiting the Conover area for about 17 years.

During a recent visit Grace was out picking blueberries in the morning. When she and Rich left at 9 a.m., they were shocked to see a huge black bear standing in a driveway extremely close to where Grace had picked the berries a few minutes earlier. They alerted a few neighbors and were surprised to learn the neighbors had already seen the bear. Grace said, had she stood up from her berry picking and met up with Mr. Bear, she would have readily given him her blueberries before heading for the hills. Something tells me she will be looking over her shoulder the next time she is out and about in her wooded Conover home.

Grass Lake School to host child advocate

Dr. Jim Kern, noted author and lecturer spoke to both students and the staff of Grass Lake School about the importance of children. Kern stresses that how a child sees the world determines who they are and how they behave.

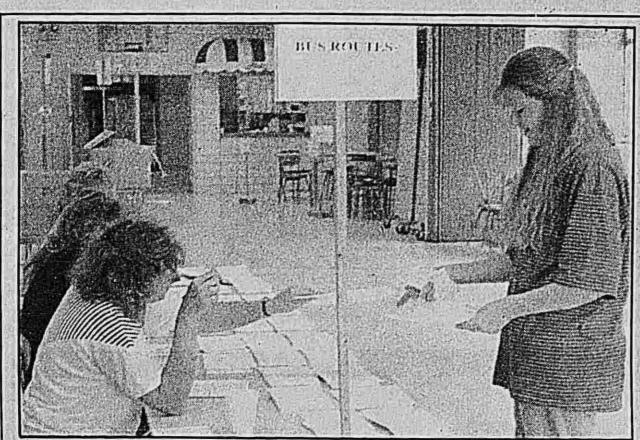

In his book, "Build the Fort Today," Kern emphasizes the importance of making the most out of every moment you spend with your child. The story is about a father who promises his child they will build a fort together. Things happen and the father must put off the project time and time again.

On the day of the big project, the child gets run over by a car in his excitement. The point of this story, according to Kern is that "Everyday of your life you have to build the fort.'

Dr. Kern has been lecturing for over 15 years on the importance of children. He is from San Antonio, Texas and has worked extensively with the Illinois School Board.

"One of the curses of our society is that children are abandoned either physically or emotionally, " said Kern. He emphasizes how important parents are to children.

Grass Lake School District has purchased a copy of the book for all teachers and administrators.

New housing push

Making homes affordable goal of new non-profit corporation.

An elusive target, affordable housing, is in the gun sights of a newly formed nonprofit corporation designed to provide economical places to live for employees of the growing number of corporations finding homes in Lake County.

The Lake County Affordable Housing Corp. basically is going into business to recruit investors who desire to take advantage of tax breaks provided builders who construct homes for families being pushed out of the market by Lake County's high land costs and construction costs increased by expensive permits, impact fees and other special levy fees.

The corporation faces a daunting task starting Sept. 1 when the first manager reports for work. Thousands of houses have been built in the county in the last 10 years. Most of the them have been out of the price range of many working families and young marrieds. Village and school officials don't mind the increased tax revenue produced by more expensive homes, but employers are confronted with a shrinking labor pool due to housing costs that don't match incomes.

Political leaders to their credit are reacting to the realities imposed by economic development in tackling the long-standing problem of affordable housing. To put it simply, it doesn't make much sense to promote jobs in industry or tourism unless there are places to live for the workers needed to fill the jobs. It's a vicious circle.

Several demonstration projects have shown that attractive, quality homes can be built here well below current market rates. The rub for the corporation will come finding municipalities willing to site less expensive homes.

The Affordable Housing Corp. faces an uphill fight to put it mildly. We wish the project well.

Public service program gaining converts

BY BILL SCHROEDER

At any one time, there are 1,600 Lake County residents performing public service, not out of a spirit of volunteerism, but as a pay back to society for wrong doing.

A growing number of non-profit organizations and governmental agencies are taking advantage of the pool of manpower provided by judges in a sentencing process that enables the guilty to work off fines through service performed for a worthy organization.

Right now there are 115 work sites around the county, according to Probation Officer Steve Sachs, 40, that provide the work and the necessary monitoring to make Lake County's court administered public service program work.

Sachs is one of two probation officers and two clerks who keep tabs on the average 1,600 persons required by judges to "work off" anywhere from 10 to 1,000 hours. In Lake County, the typical public service sentence involves 75 to 150 hours.

Churches charitable organizations and governmental agencies that utilize the nocost labor are strong supporters of the public service program.

"I think public service is great," exclaimed Grant Township Supervisor Gordon Kiesgen after a public service crew finished cleaning up and painting the town hall and township offices. "Boy, did they ever do a lot of stuff. No complaints."

Kiesgen even bought lunch for workers that reported one day for court-imposed "volunteer" work, although that's not a requirement. "I know I didn't have to do that, but I wanted to. They worked hard, did a good job and I wanted them to know taxpayers appreciated their efforts," related Kiesgen.

Sachs said the job of court personnel is to match up public service assignees with available work. "We've had skilled tradesmen wire a church or repair plumbing, but usually it's work like cleaning, painting or landscaping," Sachs mentioned. Offenders working off sentences can range from curfew violators and truants, to drunken drivers and robbers.

"We get offenders from all walks of life. I call public service 'the equalizer'," Sachs remarked.

Everyone likes the public service program—police officers, judges, courts personnel, the recipients of free labor, even the offenders.

"Believe it or not, I've had public service workers thank me for being able to work," reported Kiesgen.

STARTING RIGHT---Members of the Lake County Bar Assn. have hit upon a great way to start the fall season. Barristers gather annually to salute the memory of a departed colleague with the staging of Bob McClory Night. This year's shindig will be Monday, Sept. 13, at Waukegan Yacht Club, complete with complimentary hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar.

We're sure the late Congressman Robert R. McClory, who possessed a good sense of humor, would get a kick out of all the adulation and free flowing spirits. McClory was a strict teetotaler. The strongest beverage the popular Republican drank was root beer.

While the long-time GOP leader's memory is indelible on the legal fraternity, he left his mark as well on a legion of newsmen when he first went to Springfield. The late Spencer Jorgensen, who concluded a shining newspaper career as news editor for Lakeland Newspapers, loved to tell the story about the time newly elected State Rep. Bob McClory invited some of the Capitol press corps to "get together after work." That meant only one thing to the newshawks: a friendly libation at one of the popular watering holes near the Dome.

"Imagine our surprise when we wound up with McClory at the Y tossing around a medicine ball," Spen groused goodnaturedly.

COMING BACK---Sam Skinner, president of Commonwealth Edition and former White House chief of staff under President Bush, enjoyed his recent luncheon at the Forge Club on Milwaukee Ave. that he's booked at breakfast Sept. 29 at Dockers Restaurant, Fox Lake, to address northwest Lake County officials and business leaders. Skinner's talk on inside Washington, D.C. politics was a big success at the joint gathering of the Chambers of Commerce of Lincolnshire, Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills. When he stays in Lake County, the one-time Sec. of Transportation keeps travel to a minimum. He's a resident of Lake Forest.

Gary Skoien can't resist '94 GOP opportunities

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column on political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Clean-scrubbed Gary Skoien, who got 45 percent of the vote in a Republican primary challenge of Congressman

Phil Crane last year, is making signs like he might be thinking about trying again next year to unseat the redoubtable GOP conservative.

Asked about that possibility, the Palatine resident who is associated with a Chicago real estate development firm, didn't play coy. "Sure I'm thinking about it. I haven't forgotten the support I received last time from voters willing to take a chance on somebody they didn't know."

Skoien said 1994 is going to be a great year to run as a Republican, explaining that Gov. Jim Edgar will be in good shape for a reelection run and that President Clinton's program are getting more unpopular by the day.

The young Republican who has been building ties in Lake County since his 1992 primary defeat mused that he would like another opportunity to show people "that I would be a different-type Congressman than Phil Crane. You don't have to be unbending to be a conservative. I think more and more voters are feeling uncomfortable with career congressmen. Negativism hurts Republicans. We've got to present positive programs. Phil isn't part of the process."

Spoken like a true candidate. Or didn't we hear correctly?

Bag time---Not all lawyers are filthy rich. It only seems that way. Take note that the Lake County Bar Assn. is sponsoring a noon seminar Thursday, Sept. 9, at LCB offices in Waukegan, for young lawyers. And they've been advised to lug along their own lunch. Jim DeSanto of Libertyville, association president, will be guest speaker with a topic of negotiating settlements.

Open again---Terry Link, Lake County Democratic chairman, promises that with the approaching fall season, the county Demo office at 931 Glen Flora Ave., Waukegan, will be open again, at least on a semi-regular basis. Democratic headquarters only swings into action full-time during the campaign season.

of contrast, keep

Republicans, by way of contrast, keep their command post in Libertyville going full-blast all year around.

Rock'en Robert---Hardly seems like he was old enough to remember, but State Rep. Robert "Bob" Churchill (R-Lake Villa) has selected a 50's rock n' roll theme again for his annual fall fundraiser Friday, Sept. 17, at Midlane Country Club. The affair is being sponsored by Citizens for Churchill. Tickets are in the mail for $25 apiece. Bob usually keeps politicking to a minimum at this party and wisely lets the spotlight shine on a visiting dignitary. We don't know yet who the big name guest will be.

Musical chairs---Some school districts in Lake County will list only (yawn) incumbents on the November ballot. A few seats in other districts will be fought over by a number of board nominees. Antioch High School has a slate of 11 candidates, Woodland offers 10 choices and Warren Township High School and Grass Lake each have 9. Farther south, District 70 in Libertyville lists 10 hopefuls while nine people will scramble for four seats in Lake Zurich.

New law

I want to know why we have to turn our lights on when we turn on our windshield wipers. They made this a law. Can anyone answer me?

Haunted chair

A warning to the person who took the old oak rocking chair from my porch on Grand Avenue in Lake Villa. It belonged to our mother and was taken on the anniversary of her death. It may be hexed.

Visually impaired

We are from Lindenhurst. Lindenfest was terrific. I forgot my reading glasses and the volunteers were kind enough to help me read. God bless you.

Think so?

I have two points I want to share with you. First, I would like to congratulate you and commend you on Lipservice. I see it as the prime contributor to the political and social health of this community as well as excellent entertainment. My husband and I dropped our subscription to the Barrington Courier as soon as we discovered that there was a paper with real information in this area. The second point I want to make concerns advancing the social health of this community still further. I was glad to see that you gave editorial space to the article on page four called "Schroeder Scholar." It should have been on page

Loying husband

I live in Ingleside. I would like to praise my wife. We have been married for 17 years, and her name is Joyce. I just want to say in black and white that I love her very much. I know I could not have done better if I picked her myself, but I know that God picked her for me.

Neighborhood problems

I am a resident of Grayslake. I think that the neighborhood watch people are doing more harm than good. They are just making trouble for teenagers, accusing them of things without proof. They need to get more information before they act.

Bought and bribed

Don't gamble our area for what financial aid a casino may bring our schools. Fox Lake and Antioch people wake up. Can't you see we are bring bribed? I live in Antioch.

Alternative lifestyle

My name is Judy from Grayslake and I am sick of people talking about Ms. Paddock. I hate that people are putting her down because of her sexual preferences. I am a lesbian myself. It is her choice. The next person who says anything about her will regret it because I am sick of this *&^\%$#@!

Lonely party

I live in Round Lake Heights. The party for the people is now the party for one person. Also, "yes" people.

More watch complaints

I am sick of people blaming other people in Coral Creek in Grayslake. There is no point in blaming each other. This really ticks me off. The neighborhood watch program is violating my privacy.

Did you report this?

I have traveled the world but have never seen so much underage drinking and gambling as I did at Lake Villa Days. Are we hiring blind cops? Who is responsible or liable? The taxpayer?

What problems?

I am from Round Lake Park. I just moved from California. You folks make me feel at home with all of the busing difficulties. Besides that, everything else here is fine.

Abbott tax to be up $50 million in 1994

ABBOTT PARK-Abbott Laboratories has said that the estimated net effect of tax changes included in President Bill Clinton's economic package will mean an increase in the company's 1994 tax expense of approximately $50 million. "Net earnings which otherwise might be expected to be reported for 1994 will be impacted by this additional expense" said Duane L. Burnham, chairman and chief executive officer. The primary tax changes that will affect Abbott are an increase in the corporate rate, significant reductions in tax incentives that encouraged operations in Puerto Rico, and a research and development tax credit that will offset a portion of the increases.

Business Briefs

"We expect that there will be no significant impact on the company's 1993 tax expense," Burnham said. Abbot Laboratories is a worldwide manufacturer of health care products employing 49,000 people. In 1992, the company's sales and net earnings were $7.9 billion and $1.2 billion, respectively, with earnings per share of

Kemper reports net loss for 2nd quarter

LONG GROVE—Kemper Corporation reported a net loss of $24.7 million, or $.59 per share, for the second quarter of 1993 in continuing operations. The company reported a $13 million loss for the same period in 1992. Charges related to the provision for real estate-related losses and added reserves were responsible for the 1993 second-quarter loss, according to David B. Mathis, chairman and chief executive officer of Kemper Corp.

VERNON HILLS-The Home Builders Association of Lake County will build a 1,700 Marvel House on Aug. 28 with the help of 300 volunteer craftsmen. The Grayslake home will be completed, with landscaping, before dusk. The proceeds of the home's sale, which is located in the Cambridge Homes' College Trail subdivision, will be shared with the Riverside Foundation, a non-profit organization providing residential care and day training services for adults with developmental disabilities.

Gas prices continue downward trend

GRAYSLAKE—For the second month in a row, self serve gas prices continued to fall and are now down to their lowest levels since March, 1983, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club. The residents can take part in many program activities going on every day.

"We organize three or four outside trips a year. So far we went on five-day trip to Branson, Mo. and we just took a trip across Lake Michigan," Robinson said.

There are also educational programs and discussion groups on topics residents are interested in.

"They had a discussion on the health care —where they think it's going. They had a discussion on Clinton's first hundred days," Robinson said.

The residents are a broad-based mix of people with a variety of backrounds.

"The average age of is 82. They usually come from a 15 mile radius from here. They were either residents of the area or are moving closer to family

Baxter suspended from VA contracts

Baxter International, the Deerfieldbased medical supply company, could lose in excess of $130 million a year if a temporary ban from competing for or being awarded new contracts with the federal government is upheld.

According to James R. Tobin, Baxter's president and chief operating officer, the U.S. Department for Veterans Affairs temporarily suspended the company from new contracts due to Baxter's guilty plea in March to violating a provision of the Export Administration Act and the results of a past investigation into Baxter's sales practices involving VA hospitals.

"We are very disturbed by the VA's statement of Baxter's alleged improper sales practices," said Tobin. "This matter was the subject of discussions and correspondence with the VA in early 1991. At that time, the VA brought to management's attention the fact that there had been misunderstandings."

The misunderstandings Tobin speaks of were the allegations that Baxter during this time period sold products to the VA that were not on the federal supply schedule.

Baxter maintains it did nothing wrong and the government actually saved money when it bought Baxter products that were not on the schedule.

"The key point is that it was not ever Baxter's intent as a company to mislead the VA in anyway. Since our discussions with them in 1991, we have done everything we believed possible to assure that all our dealings with them have been ethical, proper, effective, and efficient," said Tobin. "We have conducted internal pricing audits of all our federal supply contracts."

Baxter has, under the terms of the federal announcement, 30 days to reply to the VA's charges and possibly reverse the Baxter officials claim the suspension is not an official debarment and only applies to future contracts and does not affect Baxter's sales to government agencies under existing contracts.

His initial assignment is in the Food Coatings Group. He has a B.S. in chemistry from the Univ. of Wisconsin. In preparing a budget, identify your total income and total expenses. If you're responsible for paying for tuition, room, and board costs, be sure to set aside enough money for these expenses. Then estimate the amounts you need to cover your day-to-day expenses. For the average college student living on campus, typical budget categories might include food, transportation costs, school-related expenses, personal expenses, and entertainment. Don't forget to set money aside for trips home to visit family and friends.

Once you've identified all your expenses, it's time to add up your income. Whether your income comes from your parents, your savings, a part-time job, or from grants or student loans, be realistic about the amount of money at your disposal.

Now compare your total income with your total expenses. If you're lucky, your income will cover your expenses, or at least come close. If you find that you have more expenses than income, you'll have to make some adjustments. A careful review of your financial situation will help you to identify areas where you can cut expenses or perhaps increase income.

If you haven't already done so, now is the time to take on some banking responsibilities. As a general rule, it makes more sense to open an account in your college community rather than in your home town. Be prepared to shop around for a bank that offers you what you need in terms of convenience and services. Most banks offer similar products, but there can be important differences in features and in costs.

A checking account is an efficient and safe way to keep and spend money. To maintain your checking account in good standing, record each deposit, check, and ATM transaction as soon as you make it. Be careful, too about writing checks against uncollected funds (deposits you've made that haven't been credited to your account yet.) Bank charges for 'bounced' checks can be costly—anywhere from $10 to $30 each. On the back of your monthly checking account statement, you'll find a worksheet for reconciling your account. Taking the time to balance your bank statement each month can help avert problems.

CPA's point out that basic money management skills are critical to your financial well being. Maintaining a realistic budget, developing banking relationships, getting and using credit, and preparing a tax return can prepare you for your post-graduate wealth-building years.

Clara Abbott Foundation awards record 2,350 educational grants

More than 2,000 children of Abbott Laboratories employees and retirees will attend colleges and vocational schools this fall with assistance from the Clara Abbott Foundation. The foundation has awarded 2,350 educational grants for the 1993-94 academic year totaling $5.1 million to students worldwide.

The total includes 482 grants to students whose parents are employed at the company's Lake County operations and who reside in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. "Grants are based on financial need, academic performance, and college expense," said Dave Jefferies, Clara Abbott Foundation executive director.

Since 1953, the Clara Abbott Foundation has awarded more than 22,000 oneyear educational grants valued at more than $28 million.

The Clara Abbott Foundation is a notfor-profit corporation established in 1940 under the will of Clara Abbott, widow of company founder Dr. Wallace Abbott, to help Abbott employees, retirees and members of their families.

Abbott Laboratories is a worldwide manufacturer of health-care products employing 49,000 people. Nearly 15,000 Abbott employees and retirees reside in the area surrounding Abbott's operations in Lake County.

Katrina Fey, a science teacher at North Chicago High School, discusses an experiment with Abbott Science Teacher Summer Intern supervisor Jean Severin Hewett, a biochemist with Abbott. Fey, a Lindenhurst resident, spent the summer as an intern conducting research in protein purification in Abbott's Pharmaceutical Products Division. "It was an enlightening experience for me," said Fey. "But I can hardly wait to get back to school and tell my students about my summer vacation at Abbott." The paid summer program allowed science teachers to gain practical knowledge and experience in industry, which can help guide and motivate students to enter science and engineering fields.

One phone call provides answers for house hunters

A new service for the real estate market provides easy ways for potential home buyers to discover the home of their dreams. With a simple call to an 800 number, home buyers can get quick, accurate information on properties.

Realty Info Line, a Chicago-area based company, provides automated voice processing services to realty companies. Realtors with this service now have a new customer friendly way of reaching prospects and capturing their interest. With Realty Info Line's 800 number included in posted "For Sale" signs and newspaper listings, prospects can easily obtain more information on properties. In addition to answering basic questions about price, taxes, schools, etc., this one phone call can provide information on room sizes, landscaping...even information on additional properties of similar size, location or price range.

Donovan Akerberg, President, states "The agent knows how many prospects inquired about the property and what their buying interests are. We can judge what the marketplace is saying by looking at the activity."

Realty Info Line makes it easy for Realtors to provide better service to potential prospects. A written property description and floor plan can be faxed out at any time of the day. Information can be provided on current mortgage rates, relocation, banking, and legal services. And for those prospects who need to speak to an agent, Realty Info Line will transfer them to an agent during normal business hours, or to an agent's voice mailbox after hours. This system is a high technology tool that allows a real estate shopper to do their own prospecting at a convenient time, 24 hours per day, seven days per week.

Realty Info Line improves customer service levels and increases agent productivity. Service terms can be easily arranged. For more information, contact Realty Info Line at 584-6839.

Adjusting to Alzheimer's Disease

One of the hardest realities an adult child must bear is watching his/her parent suffer from Alzheimer's Disease or a related disorder.

While growing up, we imagine our parents as invincible, someone who will be there for us forever. The sad reality is that our parents are human and aging is inevitable. Sometimes we, as their children, are faced with the undesirable uncertainty that a parent may have Alzheimer's Disease. Then we must make a decision that may impact our entire lives: Do we assume the role of parent when our parent becomes one of the 2.5 million Americans afflicted with Alzheimer's Disease?

The experts at Victory
Lakes Continuing Care Center, Lindenhurst, have outlined some suggestions to help ease you and your loved one's transition for what lies ahead.

• Effective communication: In order to maintain effective communication with your loved one, you may have to change your communication tactics. It is important to realize that with Alzheimer's, the mental process and speech capabilities steadily deteriorate, altering the communication patterns. It may also become important to talk and give information more slowly.

• A comfortable environment: In order to maintain a comfortable environment for your loved one, you may need to make certain alterations. For instance labeling objects and arranging furniture in a less confusing manner. It may also be important to simplify a loved one's room by eliminating clutter. The surroundings should be transformed into a safe, predictable environment that is simple yet highly structured.

• Constant reinforcement: In order to maintain positive, loving reinforcements, it may be important to express your feelings often in your actions as well as your words. Listening with your eyes, ears and feelings will help in determining what needs are being expressed by your loved one.

• Understanding: In order not to confuse your loved one, it is important to refrain from using harsh facial expressions and you should use non-threatening body movements. It is also important to refrain from raising your voice, realizing that your loved one can no longer control his/her actions.

Check home insurance before yard sales

Yard and garage sales are an excellent way for older people to clean out the attic, garage or basement-and, at the same time, pick up a few dol-

However, the outside chance of someone getting hurt while poking through your items shouldn't be ignored. It's smart to check your homeowners insurance policy or talk to your agent or company representative to make sure you've got liability protection.

If your garage or yard sale is an irregular event, staged solely for the purpose of clearing out unwanted and unused items, you generally can rely on your homeowners policy to provide the necessary liability coverage in the event of an accident.

But if your urge to sell items turns into a regular, scheduled, profit-making event, your homeowners policy won't apply. So it may be necessary to buy liability insurance to cover a business pursuit.

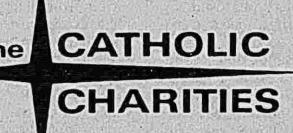

To reduce the chance of an accident on your property, make sure the sales items are arranged so there's plenty of space for browsers to move about comfortably.

Yard sales involving a number of neighbors also may not be covered by the typical homeowners policy if the organizers receive a substantial amount of money from the items sold. However, if the sale benefits a charitable organization, and those running it receive none of the income, the event will be covered by the homeowners policy.

An alternative to the neighborhood yard or garage sale is the regularly scheduled flea market, but be aware that the liability coverage found in your homeowners policy. won't apply.

In those cases, check the liability coverage of the flea market's organizer or consult with an agent to determine what coverage you may need.

Volunteer leaves 60 year legacy of service

As promising as the future often is, memories of the past can be slow to fade. And when reflecting on over 60 years of service to an organization, and to the community, the memories are as sweet as they are plentiful.

For Esther Wagner of Waukegan, her 60-plus years of service at Saint Therese Medical Center have come to a close. She and her husband, John, are relocating to the St. Louis area to be closer to their family.

Wagner began her association with Saint Therese in 1929 by joining one of the hospital's first nursing school classes, and later becoming one of its first graduates in 1932.

"The graduating class of 1932 was the first to come from the Waukegan area. There were 15 of us who graduated that year," Wagner recalls.

Following graduation
Wagner started in nursing by spending six months with the obstetrics unit at Saint Therese before becoming a private duty nurse, serving at Saint Therese and other area hospitals and providing

Dr. Griff J. Winters & Assoc. Specializing in Reconstructive Foot & Ankle Surgery

Bunions are a progressive deformity, that begins with a mild bump at the base of the big toe. If left untreated the big toe deviates outward and destructive arthritic changes occur. If treated early, surgery may not be needed. If surgery is indicated it is not a disabling procedure. I utilize the Swiss Compression technique which prevents cast wear and the patient may walk that same day. Other advantages to this procedure are that surgery is performed on an outpatient basis and little or no time is missed from work.

Dogs are rulers?

I am from Antioch and have some suggestions to the Fox Lake caller who wants to get rid of raccoons. The raccoons would like to know how to get rid of people. Does man always have to rule the earth? Why can't man come up with ways to successfully cohabitate with all creatures. If you leave food out, maybe they won't bother your garbage. Raccoons are beautiful animals.

Why wasn't this caught before all of those teachers received those bonuses for their retirement? The school board should have to recover that money! It should have gone to fixing the schools.

Love it or leave it

I think the Lake County Fair Board should ignore "yuppie entertainment." I am educated and still enjoyed the fair. These new residents should enjoy what is here or go back to where they came from!

Makes no sense to me

Illinois lawmakers have avoided passing the helmet law (only one of four states not to do so) which will result in loss of federal dollars! But, in 1994 automobile drivers will be forced by a new, useless law to turn on their headlights when using their wipers. Where is the common sense in that?

In mothballs

This is for raccoon help needed. Go to the hardware store and get some mothballs. Wrap them in a sock and put them where ever you do not want the raccoons to be. It works! I know this from experience.

Lake Villa teen finds his Russian experience fruitful

Aside from battling with bad Russian food and getting used to plumbing which is not quite up to par, Mike Beadle spent an enjoyable three weeks in Russia this summer.

"I would definitely go back. I am looking for a college or university which has an aerospace program with an international exchange," Beadle said.

Beadle gave an account of his stay to Grayslake Exchange Club members. The club is one of the organizations which funded the trip.

"It is pretty expensive. I raised about one-fourth of it through organizations, my parents paid about half and I had to come up with it myself.

"I have always been interested in science and math. The past couple of years, I have been more interested in space so I became interested in aerospace engineering," Beadle said Beadle went on a trip sponsored by the international People to People program. Moscow State Technical University hosted the students.

"They sent me information about a trip to Australia. I went to a meeting but did not like the trip to Australia. I was at a college event at Henry Ford Motors School of Technology in Michigan. I met a guy who was on the trip last year and I wrote to People to People," Beadle said.

"I think it was a very positive adventure. I know it will help with colleges because they are looking for trips like that," he said.

He had a chance to speak with someone at Russia's Mir space station, saw how rockets are boosted into space and old space capsules. He attended a

The group heard from former Russian president Michael Gorbochov.

The trip included staying with a Russian family, known as homestay.

Sergi, his homestay brother spoke English, but Sergi's relatives only knew a few words.

Following a three-day orientation session, it was time for the long flight from Washington to Moscow aboard an Aeroflot airlines.

The group traveled to hinterlands, and after surviving another bumpy road, saw the booster rocket in place. "They would not let us take any pictures, but each of us wanted to get up and crawl into it," Beadle said.

Sightseeing included the Red Square in Moscow. "Everything is red; even the pavement," Beadle said. The Kremlin though, is actually yellow. He just missed the "white lightning" of the summertime skies at the Gulf of Finland and the Neva River.

"I learned two Russian card games. We would pass the time by playing cards," Beadle said.

Mike is the son of Terry and Debbie Beadle. Other children are: Ashley, 5; Matt, 3 and Kristin, age 15.

Food, ambience make a romantic 'Odyssey'

First came the Odyssey: A sleek cruise ship providing food and ambience while plying Chicago's scenic coastline.

This season saw the launch of Odyssey II, an even sleeker and more attractive

The 200-foot newcomer—25 feet longer and three feet wider than the original craft—handles 750 passengers (150 more than its predecessor) without creating a

Its three decks-Emerald, Sapphire and Topaz-provide a friendly environment conducive to a pleasant meal. Live entertainment, from a pianist to a lively group of singers and musicians, add to the fun.

During the cruise line's first couple of years in town, the dining experience was going through a shakeout period; now they have their act together. "Gourmet" may still be a misnomer, but the food is definitely a cut above the norm.

The dinner menu includes a choice of appealing appetizers. From past experience, we can vouch for the Louisiana gumbo. The seafood lasagna, a wedge of spinach pasta encompassing a mixture of lobster, crab, scallops and ricotta, was first rate.

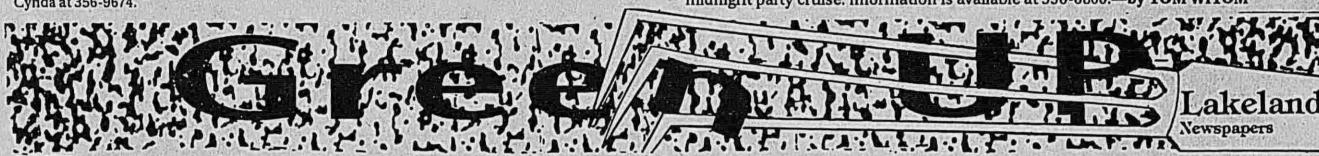

After a tasty house salad, diners pick from a limited lineup of main courses: A heavenly Pacific salmon (moist and seasoned with a lime butter sauce), tenderloin of beef, a boneless chicken breast with a wild mushroom sauce or Maine lobster (for which an additional $12 tariff is added).

Dessert options are also limited from an eminently edible chocolate pecan pie to tirimisu to Chicago-style cheesecake.

Odyssey II is a romantic way to see Chicago.

Such simple pleasures don't come cheap, however. The three-hour dinner voyage, excluding bar bill and tip, departs from Navy Pier and ranges in price from $62 to $73 per person. Also available are lunch cruises and a Sunday jazz brunch for $38, as well as a midnight party cruise. Information is available at 990-0800.—by TOM WITOM

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Misgivings about a personal relationship are ill-founded. You will meet with a challenging situation on the job this week and may feel temporarily stymied. Patience, however, will win out. Watch overspending on pleasure interests.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Friends may burden you with their problems. A new business opportunity that comes now pleases you very much. Family interests prosper this week. Unexpected company drops by this weekend, and you may fall behind on chores.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You may be worried about a business matter now. Delays at work get you down. Social life provides you with a quick pick-me-up. A person who flatters is insincere. More information is needed about an investment concern.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Communicating with a certain someone is like talking to a stone wall this week. There is no sense in arguing with an opinionated type. Social life is fun, but guard against costly expenditures. Share happy times with family this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Monies due you may be delayed in arriving this week. You sparkle with creativity and will find the right words to get your points across to others. Reaching agreements about financial interests won't be difficult. Your routine at work may be upset in some way.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You are likely to meet with some opposition to your plans now, so it is best to be low key and wait until a more propitious time. Feedback is likely to be negative if you don't give others sufficient time to make up their minds. Timing is very important this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October

22) Work priorities may take precedence over socializing this week. Still, you will receive a lovely invitation now. Pace yourself accordingly. Guard against overspending when socializing. Get-togethers with friends are short but sweet.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A problem related to child rearing may concern you and may interfere with your concentration for a while. A bona-fide career opportunity comes now. Coming on too strong with a romantic interest may cause this person to get cold feet. Be patient.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A home matter will have to be settled to your satisfaction for you to feel free to accept a social invitation. It may take a few days, but things will work out. A coworker is touchy this week and it may be difficult now to keep on top of things.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Business developments will put you in a better position. You may be hesitant about a financial concern and have a right to be cautious. You can't be forced into making up your mind now. Tell the other party you need more time to think things through properly.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Getting a financial matter straightened out will take a few days. Don't look for immediate solutions. A close tie is sensitive now and needs special consideration. Partnership rapport is a bright note this week. .

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A tendency to sell yourself short will work against you now. A new career offering that comes this week is worth your while. Be up for the challenge! Partners seem to be at odds about a personal matter. Avoid distractions.

Trees still loosing leaves

There are several reasons trees loose their leaves during the summer. The causes include diseases, insects, and growing conditions says James E. Schuster of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

The number of trees shedding older leaves right now have many homeowners in a panic. However, many of the trees are shedding excess leaves now. When the weather is cool and moist in the spring and early summer, trees can support many more leaves then when it is hot and dry. About ten to fourteen days after a tree experiences the hotter and drier weather, the tree may shed green leaves. Or the tree will allow leave tissue to dry out and hang on.

Others will allow the leaf to turn totally brown and fall off.

Wild Bill's recipe for fun

Wild Bill's Restaurant, located in Lake Villa next to the railroad tracks combines a delightful atmosphere with excellent cuisine to create a truly unique dining experience.

Owner, Bill Burns, with other members of his family, restored the old dairy building to provide an authentic railroad dining car atmosphere. Many of the old windows and brick walls were repaired and left in place to enhance the authentic century-old feeling.

"We are learning more and more each day about the history of this building," Burns explains. He is hoping that area residents will drop by and share what they know about the buildings history.

But, there is nothing old about Wild Bill's menu! Following the rail car theme, it "all aboard" when Chef Damon Witney prepares the all aboard appetizers, grillewiches, and the dining car features.

Enjoy any one of the sandwiches, which are served with French fries, pickle and cole slaw. For something a little heartier, try one of the grillewiches all made to order from the finest ingredients. Served on bakery fresh bread rolls, all grillwiches are served with French fries, pickle and coleslaw. The Santa Fe, which is marinated chicken breast with a hint of the southwest is a big hit.

Beginning on Monday, Aug. 30, Wild Bill's will be featuring daily ethnic dining specialties. On Monday it is Mexican, Tuesday is German, Wednesday is Italian, and Thursday is Cajun. And, don't miss the regular Friday Fish Fry and Saturday Prime Rib.

The dining car dinner features include broasted chicken, the Casey Jones, fried shrimp, shrimp scampi, and grilled sole. The Casey Jones is a hand-cut USDA ribeye steak charbroiled to perfection and served with a slice of garlic toast. All dinners, served after 5 p.m., feature a choice of soup or salad, broasted potatoes, baked potatoes, steak fries or rice pilaf, and a roll with butter.

Make sure to bring the kids with youto Wild Bill's. The restaurant offers a complete "kiddie kars" menu. Also, the "End of the line" dessert menu offers a mouth watering assortment that is sure to delight kids and adults alike.

reel World

Downey's flick pleasant

Robert Downey, Jr. jumps straight from his huge success in "Chaplin," to "Heart and Souls," a more-thanpleasant ghost film.

"Heart," though not reeking with substance or deep artistic achievement, supplies more than the average

FACTORY AUTHORIZED

amount of entertainment as Downey's often braggadocios, elfin personality takes over.

Here we have the tale of the return of four unsatisfied spirits, who use the body of the person who was born 33 years ago, on the very day they died, to reach their goals.

The spirits, it seems must clean the dirty slates they left when they cashed their chips in during a bus crash. Their overseer is the careless bus driver turned keeper of the ferry who is also keeping track of their deeds during the limited time they are allowed to straighten things out.

Charles Grodin - one of our favorites - plays a too-timid to rob children; Kyra Sedgwick, a woman seeking to save her relationship with her lover, and of course we have the unwed mother in Alfe Woodard, who wants to find the baby that was born after she died.

In fact, the body invasions and the results are probably the best part of the film.

Elizabeth Shue plays Downey's mystified girlfriend and Academy Award-nominee David Paymer turns in a repentant and sometimes irritating performance as a bus driver.

The inopportune times and places that the spirits take possession of Downey's body lead to many of the films top yaks!

Though "Heart" lacks the strength of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," and the romantic appeal of "Ghost," as well as the hysterical comedy of "Switch," "City Slicker's" director Ron Underwood, often retains, and in many places expands, the down home heart appeal of some of Frank Capra's films.

Although Underwood uses Downey effectively, one gets the feeling that he had a lot more to offer but was hemmed in by the constraints of a script that might have had more than one character too many.

The audience might not leave "Heart" singing its praises, but we also feel that they will all have a smile on their faces, no mean accomplishment by anyone's rating system. "Heart" which carries a PG-13 rating, gets 3.5 stars out of five from this reviewer.-by GLORIA DAVIS

How To

Survive

The Job

Search

By Nancy Sakol

evenings. Room for growth.

Q: Dear...Search: I am a supervisor of five employees who was recently faced with two employees involved in a conflict regarding their workload or rather the amount of workload being produced by one versus the other. While I had recognized there was a problem brewing, as busy as I was, I figured the conflict would work itself out. One of the two employees approached me and gave me an ultimatum, "her or me". Not being the type to be given ultimatums, I accepted her resignation. Shortly thereafter,

I was approached by the other employees who were upset over the incident. While I was given a threat, was I wrong for

A: Dear V.G. Supervisors and managers are often too busy to respond to problems until it is too late. If you are aware that a conflict exists it is best to curtail it before it crupts to the point of no return as in this instance. Every now and then, take a step back and view your employees. Look, listen and be aware of signals of potential conflicts. Exercise periodic meetings with your staff to share information, problems and solutions. Ask for their input. Take all ideas under advisement before coming to any conclusions or decisions. At the time of these meetings it may help to schedule a time when all will meet again in hopes that the conflicts or concerns will be resolved. Having an "open door" policy in the work place is essential for a harmonious environment. The employees will feel as though their input matters and that you genuinely care to listen to their needs. This

Q: Dear...Search: I set up an appointment for an interview with the Human Resource person of a large corporation. While my appointment was not scheduled for two weeks, the day before I called the Human Resources person to get directions on their location. My husband says that was inappropriate and showed a lack of resourcefulness on my part. What do you say?

A: Dear W.H. If you desperately need to get directions and have exhausted the idea of a map...ask the receptionist of the company for directions. It is best to prepare for the interview by taking a test drive to the company prior to your interview to allow for the possibility of getting lost or excessive traffic or construction problems that may cause any delays the day of the

RE/MAX ADVANTAGE (708) 395-3000

A huge bonus room is but one of the noteworthy features in the Janet, a mid-size family-style home rith four bedrooms and three bathrooms. This long room, illuminated by four skylights, makes an ideal play space for rainy-day activities. And because it's over the garage, the clumping of active little feet will hardly be noticed elsewhere in the house.

Family gathering spaces dominate the main floor. Window rich, the living room, dining room, family room, nook and kitchen flow one into the other, wrapping around the left side of the home. Pocket doors provide full enclosure for the dining room. The vaulted living room is open to the entry and stairway, and can be joined with, or separated from, the dining room.

The combined family room and kitchen has some interesting angles and offers plenty of space for relaxed, informal day-to-day living. It's set up to ensure that the individuals on K.P. duty can supervise homework, participate in conversations, watch television programs, or take part in whatever else is going on in this bright, comfortable area. There's room for four or more stools along the eating bar, while sliding glass doors in the nook open onto a railed deck large enough for outdoor dining.

Counter space is so generous that it practically invites creative group cooking projects. Dishwasher, range and oven are all built into the counters. Cupboard space is augmented by a spacious walk-in pantry, and more cabinets line the wall over the washer and dryer in the nearby laundry room. The utility room also provides access to a two-car garage with extra storage or workbench space at the back. The master suite is large, but modest in its amenities, Features include a walk-in closet and an oversized shower. An open stairway directly in front of the entry leads to the second floor where three bedrooms share a bathroom outfitted with a combination tub and shower. Linen storage is in the hallway outside the bath-

For a study plan of the JANET (403-07), send $9.00, or for a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home designs, send $20.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering.)

SI's Sports Festival a 'Field of Dreams'

Did you ever want to dunk a basketball like Michael Jordan or explode over several ferocious defensive linemen for a touchdown like Walter Payton?

Well, if you are like the millions of sports fans who wish they could be their idols for at least one day, then the Sports Illustrated Sports Festival at Six Flags Great America is for you.

The week-long event, which concludes its stay in Gurnee on Aug. 29, gives all sports fans, young and old, the opportunity to swing at a major league fastball or flick a wrist shot past an irontough goalie.

In all, according to David Son, the business and stage manager for the traveling event, participants can try their hand at five major sports and work on drills just like their heroes.

"This is as real as it gets," said Son about the interactive sports complex temporarily built for Great America Theme Park goers until Sunday. "This is what some people have called a 'Field of Dreams' for sports enthusiasts. There is something for everyone."

Indeed, with professional batting and pitching cages, a double-play diamond, four basketball courts for 3-on-3 games, a 24-second shot clock shooting game, and slam dunk contests, two regulation NFL field goal posts for point after touchdown kicking contests, pass receiving from two passing machines, a 40-yard dash area, a football training camp obstacle course with life-size inflatable linemen to jump over, a computer golf driving range, in addition to sand trap and putting green games. There are even three play-by-play tents where you can choose any famous moment in either NFL, NBA, or MLB history and do the play-by-play yourself and you even get to keep the tape for free after you finish.

Even with all those attractions, the icing on the cake is the several events designed just for the smaller tykes.

"We have a miniature home run derby, three Sega sports video game stations where kids can play Sega sports games for free, and a junior sports area with several events like Nerf archery for them to try," said Son. "There really is something for kids of all ages at the Sports Festival."

The presentation is so well done, that the entrance to the 120,000 square-foot facility uses famous front covers from Sports Illustrated's 39 years of covering the world's greatest athletes. Some of the members of this unique walk of fame are a very young Jack Nicklaus, a weathered Muhammad Ali, and an exuberant Troy Aikman.

According to Son, more than 10,000 people a day; during the show's first weekend, tried their skills and played out their fantasies.

"We are definitely impressed with the quality and realism of the displays," said Connie Costello, a spokesperson for Great America. "This event is a tremendous crowd draw and is the kind of thing we try to do at Six Flags to entertain our customers."

Son added that the realism and quality of the events are due directly to the quality of sponsors who have funded the tour's seven stops at other Six Flags theme parks through out the country.

"The sponsors Sega, Fleer, Nerf and Time-Warner have been great," said Son. "Everytime we need something fixed or replaced, it was taken care of by them. That is why this is such a great event."

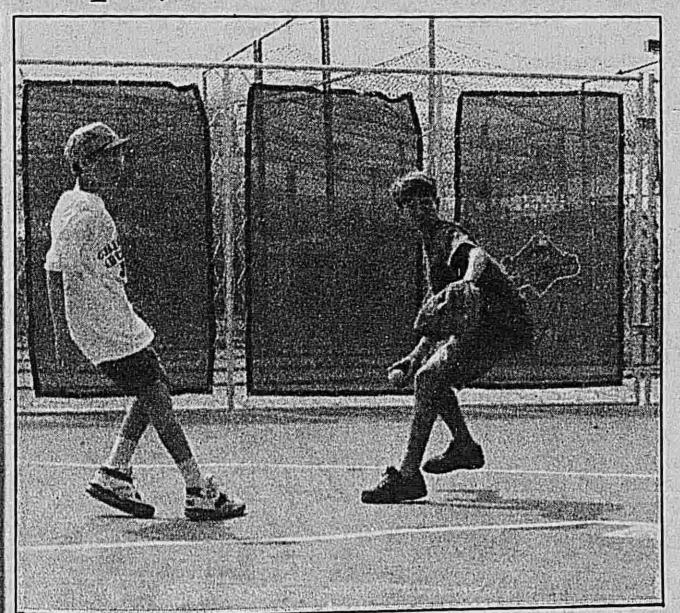

Tour Event Manager John Dugan added, "These sponsors are major corporations that are routinely involved in sporting events and have experience in the sports arena. Our individual events are so authentic and realistic because this is the same equipment the pros use."

However, the best reason to visit the Sports Festive is that it is free to those visiting Six Flags until Aug. 29, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

"Once people know about it, they will come," said Son.

Yes David, build it and they will come.

'Experts' rave about festival's realistic sports games

Local friends Steven Titus and Scott Phillips, 15, of Fox Lake, turn a double-play during a contest to see which of the several contestants could turn one the fastest at the SI Sports Festival at Six Flags Great America.

by THOMAS STEVENS Lakeland Newspapers

It was not just an ordinary day for Lake County residents Scott Phillips and Steven Titus when they went to Great America on Aug. 23. What made this day special for them was a chance to become a major league baseball player for a day.

Phillips, 15, from Fox Lake and Titus, 12, from Gages Lake, were treated like sports royalty at the Sports Illustrated Sports Festival at Great America as the press followed them to each event that challenged them.

"I'm a sports maniac," said Phillips, who loves all the Chicago sports teams.
"This is one of the (funnest) things I've ever done in sports."

The boys tackled the football obstacle course first, which consisted of running through a rectangular grid of ropes on the ground before vaulting over an inflatable line for a touchdown. Both Phillips and Titus fared well after the first event.

"That was cool," said Phillips.

The next event was the batting cage, where the young men didn't fare as well. Phillips and Titus were only able to foul off a couple pitches from the pitching machine, which was set on medium speed.

"That is harder than it looks," said Titus.

The next event was the slam dunk contest, where both dunkers were able to slam a ball through a regulation net lowered to about eight feet.

"Like Mike, if I could be like Mike. Wanna be, wanna be like M.i.k.e....," sang several young dunksters before jamming one home. The NBA better watch out for these young players.

The boys then wanted to know how Anthony Morgan and Tom Waddle catch those crisp Jim Harbaugh passes.

Once reality set in, and they dropped a few passes from the pro passing machine, the pair realized those gentleman get paid a lot of money to catch the football.

Finally, the media journey ended for Phillips and Titus when they tried the miniature homerun derby exhibit, where the homerun hitters receive a pack of Fleer baseball cards as a reward.

Although Titus came away from the homerun derby with only a couple of solid hits to center and left field, Phillips hit a blast against the wind onto the street that would have even made the Babe proud.

"This was great," said Titus. "The festival was very well organized and the events were realistic."

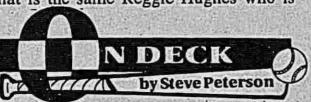

However, just as one of his sports heroes probably would have replied, Phillips said after his blast, "I'm definitely coming back."

Football mentor Hughes' softball team in nationals

For the last 27 years, a 16-inch men's softball team from the Aurora area has stampeded its way past competition, making it to the national tournament several

And this weekend, Reggie Hughes has a chance to go for the national title as the Aurora team plays in Las Vegas. Yes, that is the same Reggie Hughes who is preparing his Warren Blue Devils to sneak up on opponents starting Sept. 3 at Woodstock.

"At my age, it is the companionship. We have a team that has played together almost 14 years," Hughes said.

Hughes already has played a big role in getting the Montgomery, Ill. team to Ve-DeKalb and Montgomery battled to a 0-0 tie for the right to go to Las Vegas Aug. 22 in Genoa.

Rules for fast-pitch softball state a runner is placed at second base in a tie game in extra innings. Hughes was just that runner. "I was on second base and the first guy bunted me to third. I then scored on a fly out," Hughes said.

The team carries a 47-12 record going into the national tournament. It has a rich history dating back to 1966. It was Midwest regional champs in 1969-70, state champs in 1971-72.

Hughes' team competes in the masters division. "Most of the players are between the ages of 38 and 42," Hughes said.

There are some Kevin Hickey type arms out there. Hickey was the White Sox pitcher who had his major league career "discovered" through fast-pitch softball.

"Most of the good pitchers want to throw the ball everyday. It is not unusual to have someone pitch 59 or 60 games a year," Hughes said.

Last year the team qualified for nationals at Grand Island, Neb., but could not make the tourney due to the Devils game with Fenton.

Leading hitters on Hughes' team include all-world right fielder Bill Pfeifer; all-America catcher Pete Baker, Tom Monroe and A.J. Hiller.

Hughes, a long-time baseball assistant at Warren, coached a Lake Villa Pony league team to a 35-15 record.

"They were almost all 13-year-olds playing against 14-year-olds," Hughes said.

Leading hitters included Chris Groth, Jim Hanna, Pat Struab and Tim Zorich.

Though sometimes overshadowed by today's "fun-in-the sun" anything goes view of Jamaica, the sophistication and class for which Jamaica was once known, can still be found. Best of all, in Jamaica you can experience the type of pampering sought out by the Rich and Famous at a price within the reach of

A collection of four resorts offering the elegance of Jamaica's past at reasonable prices, are known appropriately as "The Elegant Resorts of Jamaica".

We'll start with Round Hill Hotel and Villas located near Montego Bay on a lush green 98-acre peninsula with a private beach.

Rogers and Hammerstein wrote some of the lyrics for the Sound of Music during their stay at Round Hill. Noel Coward enjoyed playing the piano in the main bar. Grace Kelly, Katherine Hepburn, Jack Kennedy, Leonard Bernstein and Ralph Lauren are just a few who have enjoyed Round Hills' well staffed villas and legendary gardens. While Saturday's black tie dinner is the height of elegant socializing, barefoot bonfires and bar-be-que's on the beach are

Once a legendary Jamaican "Great House" (the Mansion of a sugar plantation owner) Tryall now includes an 18 hole PGA-LPGA golf course which has hosted many world competitions, including the Johnnie Walker World Championship.

Whittier looks to revamp Carmel girls hoops team

by STEVE PETERSON Lakeland Newspapers

When it comes to opportunities, Larry Whittier rarely meets one he does not like.

Whether it be taking football programs at a Minnesota high school to new heights or doing the same in Gurnee, Whittier has always had a plan for success.

Larry Whittier

He hopes to put yet another plan in motion as he takes over the girls basketball team next winter. Andy Bitto, the school's athletic director, made the announcement this week.

"It is a new opportunity and a new challenge to get into high school coaching," Whittier said.

Whittier has been a guidance counselor at College of Lake County for 20 years now. His Wildwood neighbor, Bitto will not have to go far to learn the score if he misses a game.

"Andy is my next door neighbor. He practically grew up in my backyard. That, plus the new facilities, helped make this decision. I considered the Carmel girls job about seven or eight years ago, but they were practicing in a Mundelein elementary gym then," he said.

Whittier was one of five candidates interviewed for the job, Bitto said. One staff member interviewed, but left teaching at Carmel, leaving technically no one from staff applying. That left the door open for Whittier.

Whittier will be the third coach in as many years. Carmel had a 15-11 season, advancing to the regional title, but Coach Scott Green was not re-hired. A year earlier, Bob Hauckdahl was not re-hired in a dispute over in-house vs. non-staff coaching.

"He came to us with a whole package of how to revamp the program," Bitto said.

Whittier saw a couple of Corsairs basketball games last year and the state gymnastics championship.

Ray Currie, the former eighth grade girls coach at Woodland Middle School in Gages Lake, will be Whittier's assistant coach.

"I like to press and make it interesting if I can," Whittier said. "But you have to rebound and play defense."

"Teamwork and unity. Playing together as a team and having the same thing done at each level," Whittier said.

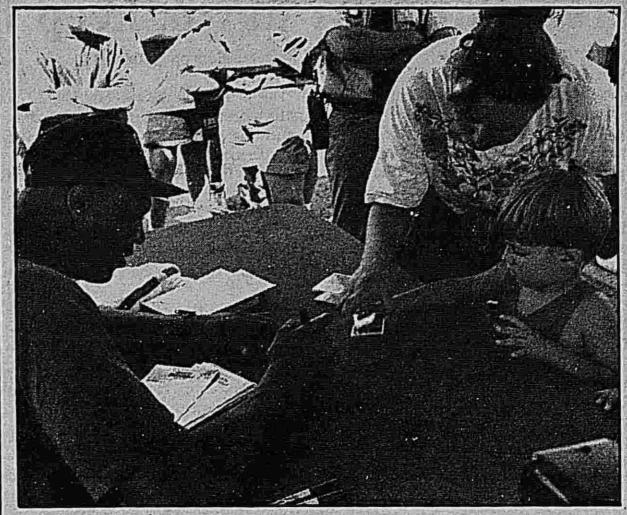

Whittier enjoyed success as cross country coach at CLC. The Lancers women won seven of nine Skyway Conference titles. Debbie Martens qualified for nationals in 1986.

The men, led by all-American Chuck Paulson, had the identical number of league titles.

Then there was the dynasty Whittier built at St. Gilbert in Grayslake. Kelly Bye, Tom Castino and Timm West, all later Grayslake Rams, won 76 of 83 games.

Whittier's son Rod, played for the Carmel boys Sweet Sixteen teams of 1985 and 1986. Rod played for University of Wisconsin-Parkside where he won the Mr. Ranger award for most dedicated four times.

Whittier has spent the last 10 years with the Warren Packers youth football program. He coached the lightweights to an 11-0 season last year.

Neal battles to ninth place finish in the Anderson 400

Lake Villa resident Jeff Neal credited the Split Fire Spark Plug Ford crew for great pit work that resulted in a ninth place finish.

Neal qualified 13th fastest for the running of the American Speed Association's Anderson 400 on Aug. 21 at Anderson Speedway.

Neal's night seemed over when he got caught up in an accident during lap two of the 400 lap event on the high-banked quarter-mile oval track. The car received significant front-end damage as a result of the accident.

"During the driver's meeting, we were warned about cars sliding around on the track," Neal said. "Scott Hansen went into a simple slide in turn three and everyone panicked. Someone locked their brakes and I was hit from the back."

After the initial damage to the front end was repaired, it was also discovered that his radiator had a whole in it.

"The crew did a great job. They changed the radiator in nine laps. We had the fastest car on the track," said Neal.

The Lake Villa resident has now posted three top 10 finishes in a row and sixth in the last seven races in the AC-Delco Challenge Series.

The series travels next to the I-70 Speedway in Odessa, Mo. for the running of the Missouri 300 on Aug. 29. The race will be telecast live on the Nashville Network.

Area pair Bear down, keep home field real advantage

by STEVE PETERSON Lakeland Newspapers

When one scans the Chicago Bears roster for the pre-season battle with Dallas Aug. 27 or any game in the regular season for that matter, Ken Mrock's name, height, weight and year will not appear.

But in some respects, the home field advantage of the Bears at Soldier's Field, Halas Hall, or the "McBubble" in Waukegan, is in the hands of two Lake County residents. Mrock, of Gurnee, has been associated with the Bears for 12 years as head groundskeeper while John Berta of Round Lake Beach is his assis-

"We cart players off the field if they are injured, take care of the bench needs of both teams, and make sure the visiting teams' owners are situated in their boxes." Mrock said.

Mrock, a long-time Bears fan, can recall some strange incidents. When play is stopped for an unusual reason, Mrock is called on.

"Last year against Cincinnati, the 45 second clock was knocked over by the wind," he said.

During the week, Mrock concentrates his energies on Halas Hall and the "McBubble."

This is actually the second bubble constructed at the Amhurst Business Park since the concept of the indoor facility was deemed necessary.

"We're the table setters providing the best facility possible for the players," Mrock said.

"It is always 10 degrees warmer in the bubble than outside in the summer," Mrock explained as the visitor lost some weight.

The bubble features astroturf, blocking sleds for William Perry & Friends and kicking nets for Kevin Butler. A 5,000 square foot weight room is well-used by Bears. The entire facility can be used at almost a moments notice.

The bubble is kept in perfect usable shape by two million BTU heating system. It is 60 feet high, 220 feet wide and 260 yards long.

During a rainy practice former Coach Mike Ditka would say, 'sorry Ken, but we have to use the bubble' to finish practice," Mrock joked.

The Bears use the facility when they are going to play an away game in a domed stadium as well as when inclement weather hits.

This was a Tuesday afternoon when Dave Wannstedt, Jim Harbaugh & Co. were in Platteville, Wis., in training camp. But that does not mean the winter home of the Bears did not attract attention.

"People are always driving by. They ask if they can go in and watch practice. I usually say it is OK for them to stick their head in the door, but then they have to leave," Mrock said.

Condell training program to spruce up Rams room

by STEVE PETERSON Lakeland Newspapers

The room off the gymnasium at Grayslake Community High School has a definite desolate look to it.

There is some weight-training exercise material ready to be used. But there is still reminders of the storage area use for the room: a basketball here, a soccer ball there.

Soon, the room will be the latest addition to Condell Medical Center's athletic training program. Condell already works with Mundelein and Carmel high schools and the College of Lake County.

"Supt. Ray Novak has been very supportive," Larry Scire, manager of the sports medicine department at Condell,

"The room will be perfect for volleyball, basketball games and wrestling matches," Scire said.

The Rams student trainers used to work out of a cramped room next to the coach's office on the lower level. Flood damage, discovered days later, meant the students could no longer use that room.

When finished, the training room will have eight Body Master machines donated by Condell and a whirlpool.

This is the second straight year the Rams have had student trainers through Condell. One Ram student trainer, Stephanie Sophie, wanted to become a doctor.

"I want the kids to feel proud of it as much as anything else," Scire said of the student trainers.

"There is a direct correlation between players who come into pre-season camp prepared and those who do not. You can tell with the different types of injuries," Pat Nelson said.

Nelson is running the 15-student trainers who work out of the spiffy new training room at Carmel. "This is four times the area we used to have," Nelson said.

The Carmel student training program has 18 student trainers.

Nelson said there is good rapport with the coaching staff. "If I say an injured player does not play; he does not play," Nelson said.

Training room features at Carmel include a strength machine, the Orthotron, whirlpool, ice and Condell donated Body Master equipment.

A hockey player in high school at Alexandria, Minn., Nelson discovered sports medicine his sophomore year. He received his bachelor's degree in sports medicine, his masters in exercise science at Iowa State University.

Nelson and Scire hope to expand the athletic training program to other high schools.

"We would like to use Carmel as a model," Nelson said.

Tim Fieberg, student trainer at Carmel high School has his ankle taped by Tanya Holik, while Pat Nelson gives his advise. Carmel works with Condell Medical Center's sports medicine department.

Wilmot Speedway

Dave Moulis of Johnsburg, Ill. won the 25-lap winged sprint car feature to highlight the Budweiser Kenosha County Fair Championships on Aug. 20 at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway.

Dale Peterson took the lead at the point of the 20-car sprint feature field with defending track champion Moulis moving his Goldmaster Jewelers/U-Hot Dog Choo-Choo/Fox Lake Harbor Maxim wing to wing on lap 5. The two circled the onethird mile clay oval side by side until lap 8 when Peterson popped a wheelie and drifted onto the cushion coming out of turn two. Moulis also slid out with the two coming together and Peterson rolling his mount. Peterson was not injured.

Moulis took over top spot on the restart and appeared headed for an uncontested third feature win until a caution flew after lap 23 when Darrell Dodd, who was third, looped in turn four while avoiding another spinning

With lapped traffic between him and second running Dick Colburn, Moulis pulled away to win. Colburn was second, Scott Nietzel had a career Wilmot best third with Dodd coming back to take fourth. Paul Ptasienski has a career best run coming from 14th starting berth to finish fifth.

Condell Distance Classic introduces new course

In its 17th year as one as one of the top racing events in the area, the 1993 Condell Distance Classic has changed its sanctioned course to allow easier access to the medical center on race day, Sept. 19.

According to Donna Turnbull, race coordinator, the new route will provide a change of scenery for participants since some of the Classic will be run on a portion of the North Shore Bike Path and through the residential streets of Libertyville. Other traditions will remain, including the Runner's Breakfast, compliments of Condell Medical Center and friends, which highlights post-race activities, and CDC t-shirts to the first 1000 participants. There will also be random drawing prizes prior to the awards

Open to residents of Lake County and the entire metropolitan area, the Condell Distance Classic provides three events which offer something for everyone. The 10K race provides keen competition for serious runners, while the 5K walk/run offers competition for participants who are turning their interests toward as shorter run or walking competition. Condell's one-mile fun run not only offers fun to individuals just starting into fitness, but also to many area families who participate as a family.

This year, co-sponsors are The Heartland, A Heartland & Fitness Retreat/Spa, First Colonial Bank of Lake County, Vogue Printers, Jobs Printing and Mailing, Lakeland Newspapers, and the Center Club, the medical center's fitness complex.

There is also a heavyweight (200 pounds and over) division. Prizes will be awarded to registered winners in the various categories. The first 10K male and female overall will each receive a five-day stay at The Heartland. Other prizes will be presented to the first male and female from Lake County, the first three male and female in each age group, the first three male and female Masters (40 years of age and over), and the oldest registered male and female finishers.

Antioch-Warren rivalry no problem for Woods family

The rivalry between War- has been working on the ren and Antioch has always penetration move. been a heated one, but for one Grandwood Park household, both schools will fill effort. He obviously can needs of a coach and a bas- score," Warren Coach ketball player this year.

Dave Woods is taking over the girls basketball program at Antioch while his son, Jeff, will be a sharp-shooting guard for the Blue Devils.

"That is my Dad's job and I don't think that will be a problem," Jeff said.

Woods was Antioch's consistent hope in a dismal season last year. He once scored 37 of his team's 42 points in a game against Stevenson.

"I know some of the guys on the Warren team and their offense. It is run with a lot of picks and screens," Woods said.

Woods likes his first impression of his new school he received Tuesday when he registered.

"It is a beautiful school I'm looking forward to meeting more people," he said.

Woods said Warren offers him more both academically and athletically than Antioch.

The decision came as Antioch was considering dropping sports in a budget crunch. "It took a lot of thought as and we weighed the pros and cons," Woods said.

Woods played on the Antioch summer league team. He does not participate in a fall sport, but will be doing weight lifting exercises.

"I think my ability to shoot off the dribble and penetrate," Woods said of his strengths. He said he

"He plays hard, which is a must and gives a good Chuck Ramsey said. "He becomes a candidate to help this team."

Ramsey will be assisted by Bill Werly at varsity. Ron Shelton will lead the sophomores and Greg Cohen and Jason Paulos the freshmen.

Woods' father, Dave, will be taking the reigns of the girls basketball program after spending several years as an assistant for the boys.

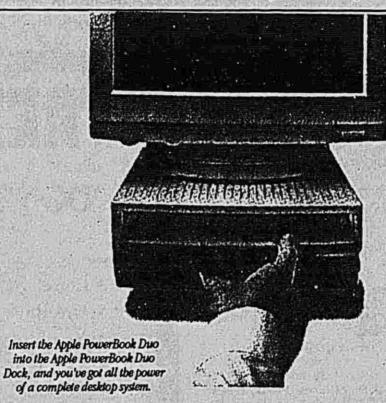

"I could have stayed at the sophomore level, but I wanted a program. Every coach wants to be a head coach," Coach Woods said.

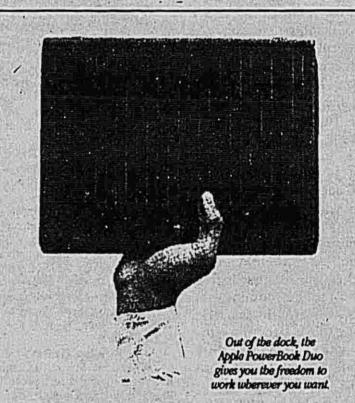

Dave Woods said his son could have stayed at Antioch even though the family is in Warren's district, since rules allow for a student to complete his academic career at his high school even if parents move nearby.

Coach Woods knows it will not be overnight to bring back Antioch girls hoops program, coming off a 5-19 season.

"I think it will take some time for us to build to the point where Libertyville and Stevenson are. We competed in a summer league, and I noticed some areas like shooting and the basic fundamentals where we are behind other teams," Coach Woods said.

Whalen will be a learning disabilities teacher at Grayslake Community High School and cross country coach at the College of Lake County.

Defense setting the tone, offense executes for Vikes

by STEVE PETERSON Lakeland Newspapers

For one Lake County Viking semi-pro football player, the 31-13 seasonopening win over the Chicago Falcons represented a return to a field which had seen his greatest football moments.

For another, the gaining 108 yards and scoring a touchdown meant a strong start to a year of high goals.

And for all of the Vikings, the win answered the age-old football question: does a 3-0 preseason start mean a good start in the Midwest Football League.

The Vikings travel north to Racine for a 7 p.m. tilt Aug. 28 against the annual powerhouse Raiders.

"It was not too difficult. I remembered a lot of it from before. We did not do too many stunts," Bob Akers said.

Akers picked off three Falcons passes, nearly had a fourth, and had a touchdown called back due to a penalty.

"I was playing floater in the back of the zone. It is just the desire to get the ball," Akers said.

He had high praise for the defensive line. "The line put constant pressure on their quarterbacks and made it easy for us defensive backs and cornerbacks," Akers said.

Chris Tavajan of Wildwood, a 1987 graduate of Warren Twp. High School, scored on a sixyard run.

"I want to gain at least 1,000 yards," Tavajan said. The member of Warren's 1986 playoff appreciates playing in the same backfield as Jon Shoemaker.

"It is awesome. The guy is a pure leader," he said.

Tavajan's Tom Vergis gained the home team a 10-7 lead with a field goal.

The defense tallied the next score on a third quarter by Todd safety Mannerbach. The Falcons took a short-lived 13-12 lead.

Tavajan then scored on a four-yard run set up by a Mike Muff interception.

The defense set the plate again in the third quarter as a Paul Klaps blocked punt set up a TD toss from Shoemaker to Frank Ruiz.

The final score came on an eight-yard run on the game's final play by Mike Rivera.

End of the line

Millburn fills vacancy

by ALEC JUNGE Lakeland Newspapers

Millburn District 24 school board has a new member; he is Nishan Paparagian. Paparagian, from Wadsworth, has more than 23 years teaching experience and has been a resident of the area for more than nine years. His kids went to Millburn School.

"I just hope I can help the school in any way I can," Paparagian said. "I think the school is an excellent school and I hope I can help guide the district in the future."

Paparagian was chosen over three other candidates who were interviewed and expressed interest in the position. The district posted the vacancy in early July, according to Jim Blockinger.

An English instructor at Abbott Middle School in Waukegan, Paparagian brings a familiarity of curriculum and educating children. He was still somewhat surprised the board selected him.

"I was very surprised a district with sustained high levels as this one would call me," Paparagian said.

Blockinger said Paparagian had a list of intangibles that made him a good fit for the board.

"He's active in the community. He is a volunteer for the Newport Fire Department, a teacher in the Waukegan School District and had two kids graduate from Millburn so he knows the system. He lives in Wadsworth and we're always looking for representation from the east side of the district," Blockinger said.

Paparagian takes the spot of the resigning Alan Cole who moved out of the district. His term will be in November of 1995.

Kannin and Grubb have been charged with six counts of burglary and criminal damage to property at this point. Five other burglaries were reported Thursday but police are expecting more. In addition, the pair admitted to burglaries in Wisconsin. Kenosha County Sheriffs are looking into it.

As a result of the super sleuthing of Patrolman James Foerster, the Antioch Police Department has the opportunity to solve a number of burglaries.

"If it hadn't been for James Foerster and his efforts, we wouldn't have easily solved this case," said Lt. Charles Watkins.

Growth

Antioch District 34, the total for those schools are projected to be at around 1900 students for the district.

District 33 Emmons school area has a total of 270 enrolled this year in its kindergarten through eighth grades. Last year was a close 250 students, according to the school.

Grass Lake District 36 kindergarten through eighth has an estimated amount of 280 enrolled.

Two area private schools tallied their amounts. St. Peter's School in Antioch, stated 231 students for kindergarten through eighth grade. Faith Evangelical Lutheran School noted kindergarten through eighth grades as 180 students and 24 preschool students enrolled this year.

Miss. Army Corp of Engineers, to sites on lakes and rivers where they have created wetlands and islands. From this, the agency plans on using some of the Mississippi ideas to create islands on Grass Lake.

The Grass Lake project would be twofold, developing a place to bring the dredge materials and also "perhaps to improve the water quality and the fisheries," said Kabbes.

Kabbes noted that the money may seem like a lot to ask for, but really it's not since it does not come directly to the Instead the "Capital agency. Development Bond Fund Monies" are held by the state.

Some of the money also goes towards purchasing the dredge and for loans to buy

Millburn board is changing

by ALEC JUNGE Lakeland Newspapers

Millburn District 24 school board will have plenty of new faces as four incumbents will have left the board.

The only incumbent running again is Kathleen Fendel. Board President Jeff Zaloudek, Sandy O'Donnel, and Thomas Erlendorn aren't running again and Alan Cole has moved from the district. New people filing are, Richard Carpenter, Malena Schroeder and Dr. Robert Bard.

"I wanted to run again to give the board some continuity," said Fendel. "I would like to continue what the board has been able to accomplish. We had only two original members and I opted to keep the continuity with the new board."

Fendel said she welcomes the idea of having new members but hopes they are focused on more than one issue.

"It's good to have some new faces and have some new ideas but I don't believe in people with only one issue of agenda. As far as I'm concerned they are minor but I am more concerned with what is the best education with what we have," Fendel Zaloudek is stepping down after six years on the board. He said the district has many qualified candidates and he felt it was time to leave.

"The quality of the candidates during the selection process when Alan Cole's position came open indicates there are good candidates who can step in where we left off. I've pretty much accomplished our goals. With curriculum, the administration and the staff have a good handle on things. All that is left is to work with the villages and developers and state funding problems."

Also recently joining the board is Nishan Paparagian. Paparagian is an English teacher at Abbott Middle School in Waukegan and a volunteer fireman for the Newport Fire Department.

Never had a problem

I am from Fox Lake. I wish the deputies who work on the lakes were not so crude, degrading, and terrible to the people. We are only out there to ride around and have a good time. I don't drink. But, everyone I talk to says they have the same problem with the deputies. I would like to hear from others with this problem.

Disappointed mother

Editorial note: Dear Disappointed Mother, we did not run your story for the reasons you elucidated. However, you are fortunate because by the time you called and changed your mind it would have been too late!

An assessment

I live in Antioch. I feel there is a conflict between the assessed value of the assessors property and the amount he sold it for. Can someone look in to it for me?

America's most wanted

Beware boaters. I will have my video camera on you to film anyone violating the no wake rules. I live in Antioch.

Lack of control

I am a teenager and everyday I hear others bragging about the guns they have in their closet as if they were referring to a piece of clothing instead of a deadly weapon. How can anyone say we do not need gun control?

Innocent until proven otherwise

I am student of Ms. Paddock and am sick of people accusing her without giving her a fair trial. She is innocent until proven guilty. She is very kind and deserves respect until she is proven guilty.

Go to the top

You folks complaining to Lipservice about the post office are wasting your time. How about putting in a call to the post office?

Graceful dancers

Congratulations to the Spotlight Company of Grayslake. Great job guys.

Not a snob

Why is it when I tell people I go to a Catholic High School people think I am a snob? I do not think I am richer or better than anyone else. I want the name calling to stop.

Wants reports

Three weeks ago I read about the lack of police reports from Island Lake. You said you were going to look into it. I am curious to know what happened. Let us know what is going on.

Editorial note: Dear reader, we have been steadily increasing our coverage of Island Lake and you should be reading Island Lake Police Beat shortly.

Needs help

My girlfriend is starting rumors about me. I would like to give her a call, but other people might get in trouble by what I say. I really don't know what to do. I need someones help. Please, please, help me.

Editorial note: Dear reader, this might be something you should talk to your parents about. Or, if you do not feel comfortable speaking to your parents about this, talk to a trusted adult.

No bridge

I am a resident of the East Lake Subdivision in Grayslake. I have heard that our builder donated money to the park district to build a park in our community. Instead, I have heard that the money will be used to build a bridge. We want a better park. We do not want the bridge.

Editorial note: Dear reader, as a result of a the tax cap, the cost of the park was too expensive even with developer contributions.

Preserve us

Get ready Lake County, the forest preserve is going to ask, you for another $30 million. It wants to buy more land so it can be posted. Instead, how about we sell $30 million worth of their property and give it to local school districts.

Night worker

To the person who wonders why bars are open at 7 a.m. in the morning, it is because some of us work third shift.

Missed a shot

I have received notice that all students statewide must receive a second measles shot in order to attend school. The notices from the school were vague. Could you please make more people aware of this as well as list the locations where shots are given free. Also, what are the deadlines for each school to get these shots?

Editorial note: Dear reader, a reminder notice was printed in the all of our papers almost every week this summer! At this time, we are unaware of any place to get immunizations for free. However, the Lake County Health Department charges only $5 for each shot. The number to contact them for the next clinic date and location is 360-6761.

Public service

I have found the Grayslake building commissioner very responsive and cooperative. The village deserves recognition for jobs well done.

Black cap?

I am definitely against the riverboat coming in to Antioch. But if we do not get it, everything that goes wrong will be blamed on the failure to get the riverboat. It is to be the savior of Antioch businesses and schools. And, if it does not work out our elected officials will say "whoops, sorry." We will then be stuck with this black cap.

Book fee blues

I am sick of the Round Lake School system's promissory notes and hassling my kids about book fees. My husband and I pay taxes to that school! I think we should get petitions together and sue the school system. Parents, let me hear your responses.

Isn't it Lake County?

I would like to give a special thanks to the Lake Villa health department, especially Gloria and Arnie. You did a bang up job. Thanks for going the extra mile.

Poking fun

This is to the yuppie called complaining about the lack of upscale entertainment and beer at the county fair. I always thought yuppies drank white wine and us "dirtheads" drink beer, domestic, of course.

Not donuts?

I am from Round Lake Beach. If you need a policeman from Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Park or Round Lake Heights between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., you will find them at Country Fried Chicken enjoying the buffet. They do this three times a week. Now, this is off my chest.

Good work

I am a volunteer for the Grayslake Colts Junior Football Organization. I would like to thank the following places for their generous donations: Countryside Landfill, Lesters Material, Landscape Concepts, Lake County Grading, and others. Also, thank you all the parents and volunteers.

Found mail box

This is to all that can't find a mailbox in Antioch. How about the one in the municipal parking lot East of Ben Franklin? There are two boxes there and you can drive up to drop in your mail. Hope this helps.

Donut squad

I am calling from Lake Zurich. Why do the local police need a police building? They spend more time at the White Hen than anywhere else. We don't even need radios in the cars, just stop by the store.

School casino connection

I think the riverboat casino in Antioch are just stupid. I do not want to get stuck in school because of traffic.

No more taxes

Now that the crisis appears to be over (at least for this year) in North Chicago School Dist. 187, I hope local school board members and residents will push the state to reform the way schools are financed. What ever happened to the Lotto proceeds. Do Lake Countians really feel that Riverboat gambling will save our schools? C'mon. Wake up, we need tax reform. Where are our local representatives on this issue? Residents here should rally. This is suppose to be the second wealthiest county in the state? Where does the money go?
